2. Collaboration: No collaboration was made outside the group
3. We saw an error more specifically, it said, "Address already in use". Since we already used the port number if we run it immediately after running the program once the server is still binded to the socket and you can not connect another socket to the port.
6. No everything works according to the instructions
7. Step 2 we were a little confused because we got different outputs on our machines but after looking at the ilab and conferring with an instructor we understood what that correct output was supposed to be.
8. We have a better understanding of sockets and python.
